

Everyone should be able to chose if they want sale pitches thrown at them in the privacy of their own home via their own phone. We pay services to enable us to communicate with others of our choice. I do not believe it is right for our home phones to be used as marketing tools... that's what television is for. Enough is enough. Companies are selling to us on TV, radio, books, magazines, mailings, on the highways, buses, taxis, bridges, and even at your front door. At least if we can block unwanted sales promotions talking to us over our phones,we would have some relief from it; some privacy. Please, do not weaken the Telephone Consumer Protection Act. The business companies can use the many other alternatives. Thank you.
